

German Courses for international students in English speaking degree programs

We are pleased that you have chosen an English-language degree program at our university. A basic command of German, however, will definitely be very helpful during the course of your stay in Germany. Maybe you have already started to learn some German in your home country.

In the upcoming winter term of 2022/23, we will offer a German language course at the A1 level and, under the condition of a sufficient number of participants, also courses at the A2 and B1 levels that you are very welcome to join. The exact level will depend on the prior language knowledge of the participants. The A-level courses will be taught on our Lemgo campus, the B-level course on our Detmold campus. Courses will start at the end of September. The exact dates, times and room numbers will be communicated in due course.

The A1 course is intended for international students who have no or almost no knowledge of German, i.e. for (absolute) beginners. The A2 and B level courses are suitable for students with some profound knowledge of German already. The aim of the courses is to facilitate your linguistic, cultural and social integration at the university and in everyday situations in Germany. The textbook used (DaF kompakt neu, Klett Publishing House) is especially suitable for students who want to gain language skills in the areas of study and work combined with the acquisition of cultural and regional knowledge about Germany.

Students will be asked to take an online placement test before the course starts. This is, of course, not necessary if you have no knowledge of German at all. Students are placed in the appropriate course according to their test results. Whenever possible, you should use the placement test that is included in our free online course offerings for foreign languages including German (Speexx): <https://www.th-owl.de/fremdsprachen/online-kurse/benutzeranleitung/>. A complete online course of German as a foreign language (A1 to B2) is also available, which you can work on at any time and at your own pace. You need to create your user account at TH OWL and register in the eCampus (ILIAS) with the password assigned to you. You can change the password later. Please inform me about your placement test result (as a screenshot or in the text of your mail).

For updated information, please always check the relevant webpage of the International Office: <https://www.th-owl.de/international/studieren-an-der-th-owl/deutschkurse/>

If you are NEW to TH OWL, please fill in the questionnaire on the following page. You can simply write into this template and then save it and return the document to: siegbert.klee@th-owl.de

If you already participated in a German course in the previous semester, you do NOT need to do so again.
